Petrina Moore sent a virtual gift in honor of Farrah.

Cousin I'm so hurt. I was not ready the way I cried when my mom called me, u said u were gonna call me back had I known the last time we talked would've been the last time we talked I swear I would've talked to a little longer said I loved you a few more times. But I know you were tired because you said so. What I do know is that you lived a carefree life most of us wished we could've, cause baby when u walked in any room everybody knew it was gonna be lit. I'll forever hold every conversation, every confession, every laugh, advise whether good or bad cause iykyk lolll... Cousin u really hurt with this one but you were ready. I love you more than you'll ever know! Rest up Farrah job well done.☐☐☐☐

I recall meeting Farrah when she was just a child. She displayed love and warmth even then. As an adult, she remained the same at heart, though she became more expressive about her feelings, reflecting her bold spirit. Each interaction with her was filled with that same affectionate embrace. I will forever treasure the memories of her life.

Farah you was a beautiful person inside and out. You was the life of the party and kept smiles on many faces. You were truly blessed to have the loving and caring mother that you have. You was once my God sister then you became my auntie lol...God bless your beautiful soul and I hope and pray that God took all of your burdens and let you in heaven and gave you the peace that you deserved. Love you Farrah take your rest and fly high with the angels in the sky ❤️❤️❤️❤️❤️🙏
